5. Regular Agenda

5.1 Presentation Of Dakota County Soil And Water Conservation District Annual Report

Dakota County Soil & Water District Manager Ashley Gallagher provided an overview highlighting the crucial role of the Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) in managing natural resources and maintaining high water quality standards.

The commissioners commended the Soil and Water Conservation District (SWCD) for providing cost-efficient services amid urbanization challenges. They stressed the importance of diverse representation in decision-making, supported by a five-member board.

Concerns were raised about the green scum in local ponds, which harms ecosystems and aesthetics. In response, SWCD staff highlighted their "Landscaping for Clean Water" program, which aims to educate residents on improving water quality and reducing runoff.

The SWCD is committed to community engagement and sustainable practices to protect Dakota County's natural resources for future generations.

John Sass, Transportation Project Manager, and John Mertens, Principal Planner, presented this item and responded to questions.

Commissioners discussed the importance of acquiring right-of-way for future projects to avoid additional costs later, despite varying levels of community support. They also examined alternative alignments and discussed possible future funding through active transportation dollars.

Staff were directed to pursue right of way acquisition to include the trail option and to provide detailed information on the costs and feasibility of the various design options for future County Board consideration. They were also directed to seek funding sources to enhance active transportation infrastructure for the trail component.

Additionally, the alignment options in the Prairie Island area should be reassessed to address community concerns.

Finally, a thorough investigation of road shoulders and bike infrastructure in Goodhue County is needed to identify necessary safety and accessibility improvements.

5.3 Information And Direction On Existing Acquisition Option On Vance B. Grannis Jr. Trust Property In Inver Grove Heights

Eddie Buell, Real Estate Supervisor, introduced a new initiative led by the Grannis family to preserve land for public enjoyment and conservation. Vaughn Grannis, the sole trustee for the Vance B. Grannis Jr Trust, discussed the land's status, prospects, and the formation of a task force to explore potential uses. The initiative aims to raise $3.7 million for an endowment to hire an environmentalist and enhance accessibility to the land.

The County currently has an option to purchase the 124.5-acre easement area and the 8.71-acre homestead in fee. In order to move forward with this project, the Trust has requested that the County terminate its' current options to purchase the property. In return, the Trust has offered to provide options to purchase right-of-way from two properties on the adjacent Barnes Avenue for a future bike trail. The goal is to finalize agreements and begin fundraising by summer, which showcases the community's commitment to environmental stewardship.

Staff were directed to work with the Trust to develop an agreement that would terminate the current options and secure the right-of-way required for the future Barnes Avenue bike trail.
